Your Annual Water Quality Report Is On The Way

Quality drinking water is essential to nearly every aspect of life. As a part of the Safe Drinking Water Act, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets many water quality regulations to ensure every community has access to clean drinking water.

In addition to regulating the water treatment process and the quality of distributed drinking water, every water provider must provide an annual Consumer Confidence Report (CCR) to every customer.

Look for this year's report to arrive in your mailbox early June.

Or view it online when available:
